

ADELAIDE INSTITUTE

PO Box 3300
Adelaide 5067
Australia
Mob: 61+401692057
Email: info@adelaideinstitute.org
Web: <http://www.adelaideinstitute.org>

Online
ISSN 1440-9828

April 2013 No 687

Nazi Germany Had 42,500 Camps – “Worse Than Ever Thought”

By Adrian Gauss, TBR, April 6, 2013

On March 3, 2013, Erich Lichtblau reported in a New York Times article titled "The Holocaust Just Got More Shocking" on recent research into the "Holocaust" as presented at a panel discussion at the German Historical Institute \(GHI\), which was organized in cooperation with the U.S. Holocaust Memorial Museum \(USHMM\).

In our illustration, above, we can see the GHI-Panelists Martin Dean, Omer Bartov, Hartmut Berghoff, Sybille Steinbacher and Geoffrey Megargee.

During the discussion, researchers reported having cataloged some 42,500 German ghettos and camps throughout Europe.

GHI Director Hartmut Berghoff, quoted in the Times, noted that this number was "much higher than what we originally thought." Some years ago, researchers at the United States Holocaust Memorial Museum began the task of documenting all the ghettos, labor sites and concentration camps that the National Socialists had set up throughout Europe.

Hartmut Berghoff (since April 2008 Director at the German Historical Institute GHI, Washington, DC) and Geoffrey Megargee, a researcher at the Center for Advanced Holocaust Studies in the USHMM, stated: "Most people are unaware of the full extent of the Nazi camp and ghetto system. Behind the well-known names, such as Auschwitz, Dachau, Treblinka and Warsaw, there was a vast universe of facilities, more than 42,000 of them, that formed the heart of the Nazi regime." The project lead researchers, Geoffrey Megargee and Martin Dean, estimate that 15 million to 20 million people died or were imprisoned in the sites that they have identified as part of their multi-volume Encyclopedia of Camps and Ghettos, 1933-1945. "You literally could not go anywhere in Germany without running into forced labor camps, P.O.W. camps, concentration camps," he said. "They were everywhere."

STOP!

While the task of accumulating data and examining it seems a basic scientific endeavor, it is necessary to fully understand the issues involved. For this we need to remember that during WWII Germany was forced to fight a war against the entire world, which was not only to eliminate the "Nazis," but Germany and the German people as such. It was a world war of extermination against the German nation. In that desperate situation, Germany sent almost every German man capable of holding a weapon to the front, whereas millions of foreigners, most of them voluntarily, but many of them also coerced, worked in Germany's offices, factories and on German farms to replace the missing German male labor force. The question arises: Where were these millions of foreigners housed, and how were they treated? As the war progressed, Germany faced an increasing housing shortage, not at least caused by the Allies' genocidal bombing campaign. It goes without saying that placing these millions of almost exclusively male foreigners in crammed German households among the German maidens whose men were fighting and dying by the millions at the front was no option. Hence most of these foreign laborers were housed in makeshift barracks or labor camps close to the enterprises where they were working. Germany was littered with factories, and so it was littered with labor camps close to them – thousands upon thousands.

The next question is: were these housing units really "terror camps"? The late Hans-Jürgen Witzsch, once a history teacher in Bavaria, Germany, and founder of the "Arbeitskreis für Zeitgeschichte und Politik" (Work Group Contemporary History and Politics), has taken a closer, skeptical look into the nature of many of these 42,500 "terror" camps already in the 1990s. In 1999 he published a paper on it, which in 2003 also appeared in an English edition: "Foreign Workers in the Third Reich". I may quote only a few sentences from his trail-blazing work:

"In order to fill millions of free work places, which became vacant by the widening of the war, the employment of millions of foreign workers was required. Contrary to concentration camp inmates and POWs, the foreign workers usually came voluntarily to Germany for work. [...]

Although during wartime it became very difficult for companies especially in German cities to ensure suitable accommodations for the foreign workers as a result of the destruction of residences by the allied carpet bombings, the results of the joint efforts by the German authorities and company managements were astounding. [...]

Several testimonies mention a camp contest, during which a prize for the most beautiful camp of the district and its areas was awarded on an annual basis. [...]

[...] at the end of the war there were more workers from abroad working in the Reich than there are foreigners in Germany today."

Although now 14 years old, Witzsch's paper annihilates the USHMM's fraudulent claims in an instant and exposes their Encyclopedia as a mere work of propaganda designed to further the goals of Shoah business: the more camps, inmates, terror and suffering, the more attention, "reputation," "moral superiority," political sway and money the Lobby can get. The Holocaust, Zionism's Sword and Shield, is being wielded again, and how dare anybody stand in its way!

As revisionist research dismantles one mainstream legend after the other, the orthodox version of the so-called Holocaust is suffering a complete metamorphosis into a mythical entity.

Media Items

German-language media coverage:
Interview with GHI Director Hartmut Berghoff on the surprising findings of the USHMM encyclopedia: "Die Deutschen konnten sehen: Hier passieren schreckliche Dinge," Süddeutsche Zeitung, March 7, 2013
ZDF television interview with GHI Director Hartmut Berghoff, "Mehr Straflager als gedacht," ZDF Morgenmagazin, March 6, 2013
Katja Tichomirowa, "Viel mehr Lager als gedacht," Frankfurter Rundschau, March 6, 2013
ZDF television reportage featuring GHI Fellow Stefan Hördler: "Neue Studie 42.000 Orte des Schreckens," ZDF heute journal, March 5, 2013
Deputy Director Uwe Spiekermann and Research Fellow Stefan Hördler interviewed on the implications of the USHMM Encyclopedia: Stefan Koch, "Neue Studie deckt Netz der 42.500 Nazi-Lager auf," Hannoverische Allgemeine Zeitung, March 5, 2013
Sven Felix Kellerhoff, "Nazis unterhielten mehr als 42.000 Gefängnisse," Die Welt, March 4, 2013

Bernhard Schulz, "US-Forscher: 42.500 Lager in der Nazizeit," Der Tagesspiegel, March 3, 2013

"Mehr als 40.000 Nazi-Zwangslager in Europa," Die Zeit, March 2, 2013

International media coverage:

"Worse than the world ever imagined: True scale of the Holocaust revealed as it's discovered Nazis created 42,500 camps and ghettos to persecute Jews – not 7,000 as previously thought," Daily Mail, March 2, 2013

Michael Walsh, "New Study says Holocaust infrastructure was far larger than thought: 42,500 sites across Europe," New York Daily News, March 2, 2013

"Holocaust Researchers Catalog 42,500 Nazi Ghettos, Camps; Numbers Are 'Unbelievable'," The Huffington Post, March 2, 2013

Sacha Kester, "Nazikampen en getto's in Europa in kaart gebracht: aantallen 'ongelooflijk hoog'," de Volkskrant, March 2, 2013

"U.S. review raises extent of Holocaust," UPI, March 3, 2013

"Timur Moon, "Nazis May Have Built 42,000 Death Camps, Not 7,000," International Business Times, March 3, 2012

"Holocaust sites numbered 42,500," The New Zealand Herald, March 4, 2013

"Nazis may have killed up to 20m, claims 'shocking' new Holocaust study," The Telegraph, March 4, 2013

Sarah Pinard, "Une étude revoit à la hausse le nombre de camps nazis," Le Figaro, March 5, 2013

<http://barnesreview.org/wp/archives/760>

Why Doesn't Elie Wiesel Sue Me for Libel?

By Carolyn Yeager, 13 March 2013

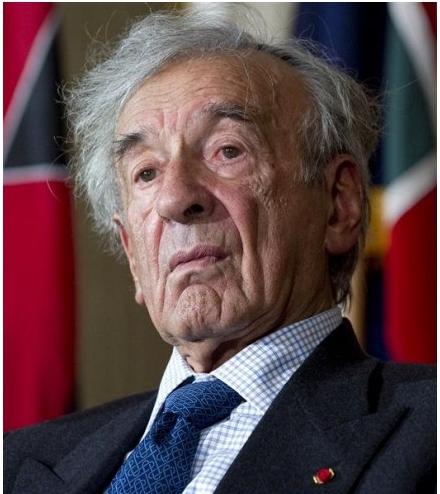

Have you ever wondered that? I sure have. If this website Elie Wiesel Cons The World is telling lies about him, it would be the natural thing to do. In the same vein, if Elie Wiesel has the number A7713 tattooed on his arm, as he says he does, it would be very easy to show it to the world and put me out of business. It is inexplicable that he doesn't do it if he could. The only logical conclusion to reach is that he can't ... because he doesn't.

Not only does Elie Wiesel not sue me, he doesn't go after Nikolaus Grüner either, who called him a liar before I did. Grüner did try to sue Elie Wiesel, though, but was prevented from doing so by the courts and legal systems that protect Wiesel according to Zionist orders.

I'm told the United States Holocaust Memorial Museum closely follows this blog. I have said many negative things about the museum, too. For instance, that it is a criminal conspiracy to defraud the American people — certainly to defraud the American taxpayers out of fifty or so million dollars a year. I have accused the USHMM of blatant lying, of perpetuating false information even after it knows it is false, of creating an atmosphere of hate against anyone Jews don't like. And, yes, of being totally run by Jews for Jewish interests — not the interests of history — very similar to the OSI (Office of Special Investigations) in it's disreputable and downright illegal tactics. I will be doing a new article on the relationship between these organizations — in 2010 the OSI was merged into the Human Rights and Special Prosecutions Section of the Domestic Security Section of the Justice Dept.

Elie Wiesel and the USHMM – a mutually beneficial relationship

I have previously written about the symbiotic connection between Elie Wiesel and the national holocaust museum he was instrumental in creating in this country – the USA. Built in Washington D.C. on federal ground amidst the national monuments to American history, this parasitical monstrosity pretends to be something that helps to insure the American idea of freedom and democratic principles around the world!

A faithful reader recently wrote to me:

Did you know the USHMM was closely following your blog? Two weeks ago, I landed on the Oral History site; I did not intend to watch the VDO, but scrolling down the page, saw there was a clickable link to the transcript of the interview in .doc or .pdf format. That's quite handy and I downloaded a couple every day till the 26th, when I posted my comment [here at EWCTW] with a link to their site on one of the rare pages without a clickable link. Guess what? – on the evening of the very same day each and every link had been disabled.

Well these testimonies have been recorded in the late 80s or early 90s, before the advent of the net and they believed they could get away with telling anything ... (Bomba tells he dug a bunker in the ghetto for 50-60 people, loading it with food for 2 YEARS, apparently in a matter of days ... to fifth-graders).

I am not surprised at that. I too see changes based on what is exposed on Elie Wiesel Cons The World. Just one example is Wiesel's now more secret visits to Chapman University after I so effectively panned his first visit as a "Distinguished Presidential Fellow" in March 2011, based simply on what I read in the local and campus newspapers. We also had a fellow, Steve, pass out flyers at a Wiesel talk during that same visit. Since then Wiesel's talks have been handled differently. In his 2012 visit to Chapman, there was no publicity and Wiesel only appeared to students in very private and secure settings. So far, there have been no announcements of his 2013 visit that I have seen.

So they react, but they are careful not to ever mention this web site or my name in any way. To object in any way about it or me would mean they would have to show, demonstrate, prove, provide evidence or give testimony that I am wrong. They know beforehand they cannot do that because they know they are liars, not me. They depend on the news and entertainment media to keep the public believing they have noble aims.

I would have to say that Elie Wiesel and the USHMM are afraid to touch this web site because of the deep research I have done, to which they have no answers or rebuttal. Without the power of the media covering for them, and all branches of the U.S. government backing them, they would wither and die from their lack of credibility.

Their chosen method is to stay in generalities and avoid specifics

The powers that are behind Elie Wiesel and the USHMM know that they can only succeed by using generalizations like "hate," "genocide," "anti-Semitism," "religious persecution," "6 million," etc. along with such vague "legal" language as "stirring up racial hatred" and "encouraging contempt for individuals or groups". No legal system that has acquiesced to what the jews want in the way of protections for themselves will allow for introduction of evidence that actually pertains to truth or falsehood of specific elements of the narrative.

Both Elie Wiesel and the USHMM make specific charges against those they call the perpetrators of evil, but they will never answer to the denial by said "perpetrators" that they committed these evils. Via the total postwar power assumed by the victors of World War II (those who brought about WWII in order to gain this power!), this question was never allowed consideration. Again, it was the media that did the job.

Legal Definition of libel

1) n. to publish in print (including pictures), writing or broadcast through radio, television or film, an untruth about another which will do harm to that person or his/her reputation, by tending to bring the target into ridicule, hatred, scorn or contempt of others.

What I do here seems to fit that, but there is no response from those who are so targeted. Of course, my intention is to discover and to tell the truth, not to slander. The only complaints I get are a few comments, and once in awhile an email, from ardent fans of Elie who chastise me for being insensitive to the man's suffering — which to their illogic proves to them he can have no reason to lie about it and would only tell the truth. (And if he doesn't, well – that is excused on the same grounds.) To their thinking, Jewish suffering excuses all moral failings. These writers are mostly female and young, appearing as though they had looked up Elie Wiesel on the Internet, come upon this site and were shocked by it. Unfortunately, these young'uns would be the first to use the "chosen method" described above, that is, to judge harm done according to "selected" peoples' feelings. That is the only way anyone will ever touch it.

Comment to Why Doesn't Elie Wiesel Sue Me for Libel?

by Jerzy Ulicki-Rek

On March 13, 2013 at 2:41 pm "Why Doesn't Elie Wiesel Sue Me for Libel?"

Because he knows that doing it in open ,at this time when more and more people is awake will be the end of his holo-show.

Keep doing good work

All the best
Jerzy

by Fredrick Toben

On March 13, 2013 at 4:49 pm

Just be careful, Carolyn - all too often the legal mechanism gets under way through a false pretext, then if it succeeds they crow about the matter that was not the subject of the litigation.

For example, the free speech-hate speech development could be used against you and then it is not a matter of you claiming truth as a defence but whether what you have written is 'hate speech', which in the Wiesel case - and his adopting the victim mindset - could be categorised as such.

Just make certain that any of your property is in someone else's name.

...but keep it up because it is important for the wellbeing of our society to expose such individuals. Anyone who lives on a lie, then is celebrated as a virtuous person, is committing an outrageous and obscene act of deceit and slander for which severe penalties ought to apply.

But I am reminded that there is culpability on the part of those who are celebrating this fraudster. Fredrick

<http://www.eliewieseltattoo.com/why-doesnt-elie-wiesel-sue-me-for-libel/#comment-209885>

Greek premier pledges anti-Nazi laws

By Anshel Pfeffer, March 21, 2013

AEK Athens footballer Giorgos Katidis gives a Nazi salute after scoring last weekend (Photo: PA)

The prime minister of Greece, Antonis Samaras, promised Jewish leaders who gathered last weekend in Saloniki to mark the 70th year since the start of deportations to the death camps from the city, that his government would enact new laws to proscribe neo-Nazi parties. Only 1,500 Jews live in Saloniki today but the port city in northern Greece has a Jewish history going back 2,200 years, and for hundreds of years it was the location of the largest Jewish community in Europe. Over 90 per cent of the 53,000 Jews who lived in Saloniki on the eve of the Second World War were murdered by the Germans in the death camps, and the events this weekend were the first-ever large-scale commemoration of the deportations to take place in Greece.

Black-shirted Golden Dawn members (Photo: PA)

Mr Samaras made the first visit to a synagogue by a serving Greek prime minister when he attended a memorial service at Saloniki's Monastiriotes Synagogue. He said at the service that "Greek society has been infected by voices that seek to resurrect racism" and that "neo-Nazis have reappeared once again in Europe". Despite promising his government would "continue to legislate towards complete intolerance of violence and racism," Mr Samaras refrained from directly referring to the neo-Nazi Golden Dawn party which won seven per cent of votes in the last Greek election.

Many of those involved in the commemoration events acknowledged, however, that they were taking place partly in reaction to the rise of Golden Dawn.

It was unclear what the new laws being proposed by Mr Samaras would look like. The leaders of the World Jewish Congress (WJC), who held an executive committee meeting in Saloniki in a display of support for Greece's Jews, demanded a law barring Holocaust-denying parties such as Golden Dawn from running in the elections. But it did not seem that Mr Samaras was prepared to go that far. In a closed meeting with WJC representatives and leaders of the local Jewish community, Mr Samaras made more detailed commitments to push through legislation against Golden Dawn, but one of the meeting's participants said: "I am still not convinced he has the political willpower for an effective law to be enacted."

In his speech at the memorial service, WJC President Ronald Lauder was the only speaker to mention Golden Dawn by name, saying that "they think like Nazis, they speak like Nazis, they act like Nazis. They are Nazis."

Golden Dawn has so far pursued a mainly anti-immigrant agenda and president of the Jewish community in Saloniki, David Saltiel, said this week that "they are not at present physically attacking Jews, but we must see every attack on immigrants as if it is an attack on Jews and demand the government does everything to prevent them".

<http://www.thejc.com/news/world-news/103613/greek-premier-pledges-anti-nazi-laws>

Is rural Australia reviving from a decline?

Goroke Hotel a pub with much cheer

Peter Hemphill, January 9, 2013

The 1950s-era hotel was run down and the locals were shunning it.

SIX and a half years ago, Goroke farmer Phil Crabtree surprised his parents and wife by contemplating the purchase of the local hotel.

A legend in the Goroke Football Club, Phil spent a lot of time in the pub after footy games during the 1980s and 1990s. It was the heart of the Goroke community where locals would go for a drink and share a yarn. But in more recent years, it was losing its place in the town.

"No one would even go in for a talk," Phil said. "I enjoy a beer and always liked a challenge and the pub was a challenge." So he bought the hotel from its Melbourne owner. Then began the huge task of knocking the place back into shape. The dining room was a mess and the accommodation poor. Phil and wife Helen employed new staff. They hired consultant Marie Best for 13 weeks to set up the business - including getting eftpos facilities in place, an ATM and the best deal from breweries - and guide them on the running of their new venture. A general clean-up of the hotel, a splash of paint and the hiring of a chef set them on their way.

Phil oversaw the bar area to make sure the beer was cold and Helen took control of the dining and accommodation area. The six bedrooms were spruced up and are now regularly let to itinerant workers servicing the local farming industry. The kitchen has been upgraded and a new chef has replaced the original one. Phil said the hotel had provided young Goroke people with employment. "We have a couple of young girls working in the bistro earning a bit of pocket money," he said. "And local teacher Steve Jeffreys has just become the full-time bar manager and is doing a great job." Phil said his purchase of the pub was driven by a desire to revamp a community hub. "It was good for the town," he said. "It wasn't of great concern to me if we didn't make a lot of money."

Just the same, the hard work paid off. The Crabtrees doubled takings in a year and in recent months, it has taken off on another growth spurt. Phil has reluctantly decided it is now time to sell the Goroke Hotel. It is on the market for $345,000 through agent Elders at Horsham.

The hotel has a semi-circular bar with two coolrooms, a saloon bar, two lounges and a dining room, six bedrooms, two bathrooms and an office. A detached, three-bedroom cottage in need of renovation provides accommodation for the owner or manager. A lawn area and rose garden front the main street of Goroke. The 8000sqm block provides plenty of car parking space or scope to build more accommodation.

The well-equipped hotel kitchen has a deep fryer, charcoal grill, gas stove, hotplates, pizza oven and salamander. Attached to the kitchen are a food preparation room and two pantries. The pub is licensed to seat 155 diners for meals but with no cafe in town, it also provides takeaway meals as well. Phil said regular clientele included the town's Apex club, which met there every two weeks, and the local Lions club, which gathered monthly for its dinner meetings. The Senior Citizens group come in once a month for a meal, sponsored by the local council. He said in the week between Christmas and New Year's Day, about 200 meals were served.

Every year, local resident and former Les Girls showgirl, Wanda Jackson, and her friend, John Taylor, put on a couple of shows in the pub and pack the place out. Phil said they came from right across the Wimmera to see Wanda, Queen of the Little Desert. "A busload came from Laharum for the show last November," he said.

The hotel also attracts other regular groups each year, including an Essendon bowls club which comes up for a tournament and a group of businessmen from Melbourne and Adelaide who want a typical country pub to let their hair down in a "theme dress" event. Monthly sales figures are available to prospective buyers.

GOROKE HOTEL
GOROKE, VICTORIA
Property: country pub
Sale: private
Price: $345,000
Agent: Elders, Horsham
Contact: Geoff Coustley, 0419 600 320

Rosy future: Farmer Phil Crabtree is selling the Goroke Hotel - Retro: The pub's dining room

Little Wanda: Former-Les Girls showgirl, Wanda Queen of the Little Desert, attracts crowds to her annual shows at Goroke pub. http://www.weeklytimesnow.com.au/article/2013/01/09/555574_property.html

Remember the White Smoke on 13 March 2013?

White smoke rises from the chimney on the roof of the Sistine Chapel meaning that cardinals elected a new pope on the second day of their secret conclave.

Cardinal Jorge Bergoglio becomes Pope, the 266th head of the Roman Catholic Church.

A Swiss Scholar:
I would like to get an Iranian passport
Jewish banksters are behind European banking crisis

Teheran, Young Journalist Club, 24 February 2013

A Swiss scholar who has been forced to leave his country and now lives in exile in Russia in an interview with YJC says that "Jewish banksters" in the EU are responsible for European Monetary crisis.

The full text of the interview follows,

1. Mr. Graf, you are from Switzerland and are forced to live in Russia now. Why is that?

In July 1998, the district court of Baden sentenced me to 15 months in prison without probation and a fine of about 40,000 Swiss francs for my revisionist writings. My editor Gerhard Förster, who was 76 years old and so sick that he had to be brought into the courtroom in a wheelchair, got one year in jail plus a similar fine; he passed away two months later. As I was unable to pay the fine, it would have been commuted into an additional prison term, and I would have spent about two and a half years behind bars. My lawyer Dr. Urs Oswald appealed the verdict, but in 2000, the sentence was confirmed by the Supreme court of Switzerland. At that time, I was engaged to my future wife Olga Stepanovna, a historian from Minsk (Belorussia). As we did not want to be separated for a long period of time, I decided not to serve my sentence but to emigrate.

Since 2002, Olga and I have been living in Russia. I earn my living as a translator from various European languages (especially English and Russian) into German but I also continue my revisionist activities. In 2010, together with the Swede Thomas Kues and the Italian Carlo Mattogno, I wrote a long and detailed book about the alleged „extermination camp“ Sobibor in eastern Poland where, according to the Holocaust story, between 170.000 and 250.000 Jews were gassed in 1942 and 1943 („Sobibor. Holocaust Propaganda and Reality“. Castle Hill Publisher, Uckfield 2010). In this book we show that Sobibor was in reality a transit camp.

Since my Swiss passport expired years ago, and as I have no possibility to obtain a Russian or White Russian passport, I am unable to move and cannot do any research in Moscow archives either. If I could get an Iranian passport, this would be immensely helpful to me. From November 2000 until April 2001, I lived in Teheran, helping to prepare a revisionist conference scheduled to take place in March/April 2001 in Beirut. (Yielding to intense American pressure, the Lebanese government forbade this conference two weeks before it was supposed to take place.) I was fascinated by Iran and its history and I studied the Farsi language two hours per day; after four months, I could converse haltingly. Unfortunately, I have forgotten my knowledge of this beautiful tongue because I had no possibility to practice it but I trust I could rapidly recover my knowledge in case of necessity.

2. Considering the fact that one of the reasons for your exile was the Jews' influence in your country, how negative do you evaluate this influence?

While Jewish influence is certainly not nearly as pervasive in Switzerland as in other European countries (especially Germany and France), it is still strong. The best example is the so-called „Anti-Racism law“ which was passed in 1993. This law forbids „justifying, minimizing or denying a genocide“ – a formulation which is so vague that nobody knows what is allowed and what is forbidden. Although neither the Jews nor the Holocaust nor the gas chambers nor the six million figure are mentioned in the respective paragraph, this law is used to stifle any dissent about the extent of the persecution of the Jews during World War Two. It is no secret that it was introduced at the instigation of the Swiss Jews. As early as February 1987, Jüdische Rundschau Maccabi, the organ of the Swiss Jewish community, announced that Switzerland would soon get an Anti-Racism law which would make Holocaust revisionism a criminal offense. Now how could the Swiss Jews know in 1987 that our parliament would indeed pass such as law six years later?

3. Has the Zionist influence across Europe, with the money they have, been so far helpful or otherwise to the current European crisis?

Of course, the present economic crisis in Europe has many fathers, but the most important factor is undoubtedly the banking system. The Commission of the European Union is directed by the European Central Bank which in its turn is controlled by the Jewish Goldman Sachs bank. On 4 September 2012 the German TV channel ARTE presented a documentary entitled "Goldman Sachs – Eine Bank lenkt die Welt" ("Goldman-Sachs – a bank rules the world"). The two producers, Jérôme Fritel and Marc Roche, stated: "The influence of Goldman-Sachs directly influences the life of the citizens; an example is the nomination of the President of the European Central Bank. Goldman-Sachs systematically prevents any regulation of the financial sector. The arm of this bank is very long indeed." The director of the European Central Bank benefits from special laws which grant him immunity from any legal prosecution.

Thanks to their immense financial power, the (predominantly, but of course not exclusively) Jewish banksters can bribe and buy almost any politician, regardless of which party he belongs to. The differences between "Conservatives", "Liberals" and "Socialists" are purely rhetorical; as a matter of fact, they all promote the same policy which benefits the banksters and harms the working population. Under these circumstances, elections are largely a farce.

The Federal Republic of Germany as the most affluent member state of the European Union has during the last years paid huge sums (many billions of dollars) to Greece, ostensibly to help this debt-ridden and impoverished nation. The average German citizen thinks that his money will help poor Greeks. He does not know that no Greek citizen will ever see a penny of it. All the money goes to the (largely Jewish) banks of which Greece is a debtor. In order to reduce its debts, the Greek government has taken measures which condemn large sectors of its own population to misery - cutting salaries and pensions, closing down hospitals etc. So while the banksters live in unimaginable luxury, as a result of their activities whole countries are ruined. In Portugal and Spain, the situation is only marginally better than in Greece, and other countries, such as Italy, will soon follow.

4. As the guarantee for the existence of the Zionist regime, what impact has Holocaust had on Western approach to the regime?

We can safely say that without the Holocaust, the Zionist state of Israel would not exist. After all, the establishment of this state was an anachronism. In November 1947, when the United Nations recommended the partition of Palestine, Great Britain had already given independence to India. Dozens of Asian and African territories were attempting ever harder to shed the white man's rule. In other words: Colonialism was on its way out. At the very same time, the Zionists were allowed to carry out their colonialist project in Palestine, with terrible consequences for the native Arab population. Israel's former ambassador to the UN, Abba Eban, made no secret of the fact that the Holocaust had been instrumental to the foundation of the Zionist entity: „One reason of this really stupendous victory was without the faintest doubt the Shoa [Hebrew for „catastrophe”, i. e. Holocaust]. The memory of the genocide was still alive.” As the Palestinians are the main victims of the Holocaust story, one would expect Palestinian (and other Muslim) intellectuals to scrutinize this story in order to ascertain if it is historically accurate. Unfortunately, this has not been done. It is true that many Muslims have denounced the Holocaust as a fraud, but in a debate with skilled Jewish historians or journalists they would have no chance whatsoever because they lack the necessary knowledge. Among the revisionist researchers, there are no Muslims, and to the best of my knowledge the most recent and most important revisionist studies, such as the extremely important collective volume Dissecting the Holocaust (editor Germar Rudolf, Thesis and Dissertation Press, Chicago 2003) have not been translated into Arabic and Farsi. This is very regrettable for if the Palestinians were informed about this question they would know that, while the Jews were indeed cruelly persecuted during the Second World War, there was no systematic extermination, there were no homicidal gas chambers and the six million figure is an irresponsible exaggeration. In other worlds: The Palestinians would learn that they had their country stolen and their sons imprisoned, tortured and killed in the name of a lie.

Some Muslim intellectuals (the late writer Edward Said is a good example) endorse the traditional Holocaust story because they think that they have to do if they want to be accepted by Western society and to be able to defend the rights of the Palestinians more efficiently. This is a tragic illusion. As long as the Western world believes in the extermination camps, the gas chambers and the six million, it will always back Israel, no matter how this states behaves. The peoples of the West certainly do not like Israel's aggressions and massacres but they argue that the Holocaust was a hundred times worse, so the Jews must have their own country in order to prevent a new Holocaust. If the gas chambers and the six million were universally unmasked as a propaganda lie, the Zionist state would be doomed, and Jewish influence in the Western world would be dramatically weakened.

If I could be sure that such a book would be rapidly translated into Farsi and Arabic (and if possible into other main languages of the Muslim world), I would write a book of about 400 pages, with many illustrations, about the genesis and the function of the Holocaust story. This book would take account of the latest results of revisionist research.

<http://www.yjc.ir/en/news/198/i-would-like-to-get-an-iranian-passportjewish-banksters-are-behind-european-banking-crisis>